

I am outraged at the actions of Sinclair Broadcasting, as they are instructing their 62 stations to pre-empt normal local programming to air an anti-Kerry program masquerading as a documentary days before the election. Showing a one-sided "documentary" is not serving the public interest, as Sinclair is obligated to do.

This is an example of the dangers of large companies dominating the air waves. This is in effect direct campaigning by a corporate giant. We need to restrict the ownership of the media by a few large corporations, not increase it.
